Sanyo Eneloop Manual - 82one.critizise.me

Eneloop is a brand of 1.2-volt low self-discharge nickel-metal hydride rechargeable batteries and accessories developed by Sanyo, introduced in 2005. Eneloop cells lose their charge much more slowly than the 0.5-4% per day loss by older-technology NiMH batteries, retaining about 85% of their charge for a year after charging. This allows them to be sold precharged and ready for use,
